10th anniversary of event

GARNETT – The historic Lake Garnett Raceway roars back to life once more Octoner 13-15 as the Lake Garnett Grand Prix Revival (LGGPR) marks its 10th Anniversary in 2023. This year's celebration holds spethe community's most popular annual attractions, boasting some 300 cars among various competition and display categories.

This year's celebration of the Corvette v. Cobra face-off is a tribute to one of the classic competions of U.S. racing history. In 1963, the Lake Garnett raceway witnessed a historic battle between the factory Chevrolet Corvette team and Carroll Shelby's Shelby American factory team of 289 Cobras. Shelby himself was on-hand to witness his legendary drivers Ken Miles, Dave MacDonald and Bob Johnson go head-to-head with ace Corvette pilots Dick Thompson, Don Yenko, and Grady Davis. Owners and enthusiasts of these cars have been invited to join the LGGPR this year for a weekend of high-octane excitement, camaraderie, and nostalgia.

The LGGPR car show includes a stunning display of vintage race cars, classic sports cars, and modern performance automobiles, showcasing the best of American and international automotive heritage. But the static displays pale in comparison to the roaring, heart-pounding on-track action of race car exhibitions and high-performance driving sessions for street cars on the historic 2.8-mile road course. Multiple track groups are available for drivers of every experience level, from total novice to veteran racer. Those categories include:

Adrenaline-Packed Autocross: Taking place on Saturday morning at the Garnett Municipal Airport, drivers will navigate a challenging course of cones, pushing their sports cars to the limit in a quest for precision and principal add perspectives, more variety to Nov. 7 contest

GARNETT - Two Garnett residents will enter the November race for Garnett City Commission as writein candidates in a field that already has two official filings, amid months of controversy surrounding city government. Paula Scott ran unsuccessfully for city commission in 2016 and sought appointment to two subsequent city commission vacancies. Nate Wiehl is a former campaign treasurer for one of former 5th District Kansas Representative Mark Samsel's campaigns, and also unsuccessfully sought appointment to a city commission seat in 2021.

Scott and Wiehl will face incumbent Jason Sheahan, who was appointed early in 2022 after the death of commissioner Cody Gettler in November 2021, and Mark Powls, who filed for the office by the June filing deadline. Only Powls and Sheahan's names will appear on the November 7 election ballot, with the option to write-in an unfiled candidate underneath the printed name block.

City government has been steeped in controversy surrounding the Garnett Recreation Department for much of the past year, after complaints about the department's operation and its former director Phil Bures resulted in public actions by Sheahan to pressure Bures into rectifying what Sheahan characterized various discrep ancies in the department's operation. That feud culminated in Bures' resignation after a blow-up at a city commission meeting in August between Sheahan, Bures and members of the city's parks and recreation board, and a subsequent public castigation of Sheahan for his approach and his behavior by fellow commissioner Mark Locke at another meeting later that month.

Wiehl said he hoped his election might bring an element of civility back to the commission.

Davids follows Dems, cranky GOP to oust McCarthy

division among Repubs as Democrats pile on

BY DANE HICKS THE ANDERSON COUNTY REVIEW

WASHINGTON, Following her consistent voting pattern following Democrats in the U.S. House, 3rd District Congresswoman Sharice Davids as expected broke with the remaining Kansas congressional delegation last week in a Republicanled vote to oust House Speaker Kevin McCarthy of California.

Davids, a Democrat, voted with the 216-210 majority on a Republicanled initiative declare the speakoffice vacant, after

remove McCarthy from power. It was the first time a sitting Speaker of the House has been removed from power by the members of the Congress. congressmen

Jake LaTurner, Ron Estes and Tracey Mann all voted against the motion to remove McCarthy. Seven Republicans ioined every Democrat in the House to tip the slim margin in favor Gaetz's motion to vacate the chair. Those Republicans were Andy Biggs of Arizona, Ken Buck of Colorado, Tim Burchett of Tennessee, Eli of Montana. Conservatives in the House were angry with McCarthy over a deal he made with Democrats for a Continuing Resolution to fund the U.S. Government last month and avert what would have been a partial shutdown of services if no money was approved to fund them. ## Ottawa bee keeper wins sweet victory for home-based businesses

BY PATRICK RICHARDSON THE SENTINEL

OTTAWA - People in Ottawa, Kansas who want home-based businesses to sell honey and produce won a victory recently, thanks to Ellen Finnerty and Kansas Justice Institute.

Finnerty, 52, sued the city of Ottawa, Kansas earlier this year challenging the city's prohibition on home-based businesses that involve "animal care of any type."

However, according to a release from the Kansas Justice Institute, four months after she teamed with Kansas Justice Institute to file a lawsuit challenging Ottawa's unconstitutional home-based business prohibitions, the City of Ottawa relented and changed their ordinances to allow her the chance to supplement her income.

"Sweet! What a great victory, not only for me, but for everyone who wants to live a natural, healthy life, and earn an honest living from it," Finnerty said. "After the city told me no, I'm so thankful for Kansas Justice Institute. I could not have done this without them."

The prohibition was particularly odd, as city code did not prevent Finnerty from keeping bees — she simply wasn't allowed to sell any honey.

'We're incredibly pleased the city changed its laws so Ms. Finnerty can start her dream business," KJI litigation director Sam MacRoberts, himself a beekeeper, said. "The city correctly recognized that it shouldn't be a crime to use your own backyard to produce homegrown vegetables and home-raised honey.

"People have gardened and safely raised honey for thousands of years, and the city, to its great credit, understood there wasn't a good reason to prevent Ellen from start-Finnerty is a single mother who works full-time as a machine operator. To help support her family, Finnerty wanted the opportunity to sell homegrown produce and home-raised honey at the local farmer's market. Now she can. "Ellen didn't sue the city for money," MacRoberts said. "She was fighting to protect everyone's rights under the Kansas Constitution — the right to earn an honest living and to be able to use your own backyard for a safe and peaceful purpose.'

However, he said, the problem persists throughout the state with codes which make it difficult to operate a homebased business.

"This is an important victory in Ottawa, but our work isn't done," MacRoberts said. "Cities throughout the state continue to improperly, and unconstitutionally, restrict home-based businesses." This case is part of KJI's litigation campaign challenging laws that interfere with Kansans' ability to produce, market, and buy foods of their choosing. This case is also part of KJI's litigation efforts to make it easier for families to earn an honest living. In 2019, KJI successfully sued the State of Kansas over its raw milk advertising prohibition, and in 2020, KJI sued the State over its occupational licensing requirement involving eyebrow threading.

How many people are waiting to be introduced to Jesus

OBITUARIES

The epistles are replete with illustrations of how Jesus turned rough, uneducated men into disciples. In Mark 1:17-18, we see Jesus call Simon, Andrew, James and John. "Come follow me," Jesus said, "and I will make you fishers of men." John the Baptist, whose sole expressed purpose was to prepare the way for Jesus, no doubt influenced these men as they would have been aware of John's ministry at the Jordan River. We are told the whole Judean countryside and all the people of Jerusalem went out to John. Did these men have a complete understanding of what "Come follow me" meant? I doubt they did. This was the initial phase of these men becoming dis-In John 14:1-3 we read of an event that occurred close to the end of Jesus' ministry. Jesus says to his apostles, "Don't let your hearts be troubled. Trust in God, trust also in me. In my Father's house are many rooms, if it were not so, I would have told you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you to be with me that you may also be where I am." The time that elapsed between these two events represents the training period for these men. Jesus does not reveal

what the outcome will be for these men when he issues the "Come follow me" statement but begins to reveal the impending kingdom in this statement. The success or failure of God's kingdom rested with these men. If they had not accepted the call of Jesus to "Come follow me" there would be no prepared place for the disciples or us. Jesus left a very clear footprint for us to follow. He drew people to himself, he won their confidence and inspired their faith, he opened to them the way of salvation and called them to a decision. Jesus appealed to the one need most people didn't realize they had. The need for a Savior. How many people are out there waiting for you to introduce them to Jesus? What we do with the light of knowledge we have will be part of our own judgment.

Working to make a life

Jackie Mundt, Pratt County farmer and rancher

Fall harvest is in full swing on our central Kansas farm.

Do you live to work or work to live? This question of mindset and philosophy has been a source of intergenerational tension for a while now. Baby boomers see working hard to provide for their families and millennials work to support a great life outside their working hours. In the end both groups are working to make a living.

In my world, neither of these is correct; work takes on many forms in my life — a career where my living is earned, jobs completed around the farm that keep the place running and time spent on community activities. They are work in function but don't merely represent earnings to provide for a family or the pride in a job well done. These things are my work and my life.

For weeks our house has been in fall harvest mode which means non-stop action. Someone is likely driving a combine or grain cart, fueling or shuttling vehicles, farming to prep the soil, running a drill and sometimes all of these are happening at once. Our house feels like a rest stop where meals are eaten, and the shorter days mean leaving and coming home in the dark. We exercise communication and teamwork as we put the needs of the farm over our own comfort. It's chaotic, exciting and exhausting.

Life off the farm doesn't stop for harvest. Recently we helped run our local Oktoberfest to raise money for community philanthropy. One of the best things about this event is the group of 16 people who serve on the planning committee to make it happen. This group of working professionals and business owners is made up of parents to small children (including three sets of twins), leaders in churches or serving on community and civic boards, and we even have some pursuing advanced degrees. Everyone on the committee is stepping away from busy lives; we are making sacrifices and working because we take ownership in making our community a great place to live.

My "real job" is fairly exciting this time of year, too. Most of the cooperatives employees are focused on harvest and helping our members get wheat in the ground. My focus is on planting a different type of seeds. The start of the school year provides lots of opportunities for me to give tours of our facilities and classroom presentations about the value of cooperatives, working at the cooperative and making the decision to live rural by choice. Farmers are often recognized for their work ethic which might be because to farmers work is more than just doing a job, it is our life. We aren't paid by hours or jobs done; we spend months investing time, energy and resources not knowing how much or even if it will all pay off in the end.

This is the work-life philosophy that underlies my life. Much of what I do has little instant gratification or payoff. I have to have faith that my time, effort and skills will yield something great in the future. They say that if you love what you do you will never work a day in your life. I see it slightly differently, if you love what you do, you gladly work hard to make things happen. much easier.

Republicans and the pandemic of dumb

In trying to illustrate the pandemic of stupidity that afflicts the Republican Party and scuttles its attempts to reverse 60 years of nonsensical Leftist chokehold on our country's culture and politics, it's hard to decide what pandemic-style movie best fits my point.

All the classic Get-Sick-And-Die Hollywood blockbusters feature an evil virus of some kind. The Andromeda Strain; Outbreak; Contagion; 12 Monkeys; The Omega Man – all of them conjure up a world where a virus invades the bodies of humanity from outer space or some messed up monkey or maybe a lab in Wuhan, China. Indeed, a virus based in dumb would probably never survive to infect vast numbers of the population. Think for a minute about a pandemic version of Dumb & Dumber; if Darwin is right, a virus so stupid would never survive to evolve and morph into anything that makes a great Hollywood disaster movie.

But Republicans are witnessing the outcome of such a virus – one for which there's no known source or apparently an antidote. Only viral stupidity can produce the outcomes Republicans have inflicted upon themselves over the past year or so with the likes of Matt Gaetz in the U.S. Congress last week, and earlier in Kansas with Dennis Pyle and the 80,000 yard gnomes who voted for Arlyn Briggs in the GOP primary against Derek Schmidt.

So the imagery that comes into mind in this illustration that I've already tried too hard to visualize for you is a virus that affects Republicans not like some respiratory affliction or zombie flick, but instead like a Three Stooges film where the principals spend excruciating swaths of time smacking each other on the heads with 2x4s and slapping each other across the chops. These Republicans aren't being transformed into brain eating ghouls; they're poking each other in the eyes and going "Nyuck, nyuck,

And that stupidity rains Democrat disaster on Kansas and on the country.

Last week's ouster of House Speaker Kevin McCarthy was classic GOP circular firing squad pandemic stuff. Gaetz and an infected group of GOP hard liners had their pants in a wad because McCarthy cut a deal with Democrats to avoid a financial shutdown of the U.S. Government - one which assuredly would have been blamed on Republicans. All it took was Gatez's introduction of the poison pill measure that GOP cranks forced McCarthy to relent to in order to initially elect him speaker and a handful of Republican fops to join Democrats in the House who rightfully couldn't contain their jubilation.

DANE HICKS, Publisher

All Joe Biden's accomplices in Congress had to do was sit back and watch. When you're enemy's about to shoot himself in the foot, don't interrupt him.

How similar was the story last year in Kansas when 80,000 GOP stooges mounted their "we-don't-like-Derek-Schmidt-because-he's too-tall" campaign and followed accused felon Arlyn Briggs in a protest vote in the Kansas Republican Primary. Briggs was charged with threatening Anderson County Sheriff's deputies and trying to lure them to his property at the time, but 80,000 geniuses in the party thought he was a better choice than an accomplished, longtime legislator who was the sitting Attorney General of the state.

Of course that was a precursor to Hiawatha Huckster Dennis Pyle swapping his GOP credentials to become an Independent and petitioning his way onto the November '22 ballot for the governor's race – with a ton of supporting Democrat signatures, mind you. Between Pyle's die-on-every hill followers and some nobody Libertarian and Republicans who just decided to sit this one out, they all gifted us with another four years of Lockdown Laura Kelly.

The dumb and dumber duo of Pyle and Briggs pulled the rug out from under sensible government in Kansas just like Gaetz and his nabobs in the House of Representatives decided throwing out the steering wheel was better than driving down a bumpy road.

This kind of genius is just the stuff to breathe new life into the gasping Joe Biden Disaster. Democrats can rejoice in the fact that there's no vaccine in sight. ###

So someone who wants to be a city commissioner is willing to just throw the law aside to do something that he thinks ought to be done. Sounds like maybe he should be running for president of Ukraine. Thank you.

To the Garnett Elementary School, Mr. Ackland and staff, can we please please bring back the south door after school so us parents can pick our children up swiftly? It's become a nightmare. It's slow going and there's a lot of parents who use that south door especially when we have shifts to get to for work and off from work. We would greatly appreciate it if you would bring back the south door to let the children out at the end of the day. Thank you

A diary, for that matter any stolen property can be the FBI's business. And I do wish contributors would use a nonpartisan fact check before posting. It would be quite apparent then that Biden, despite the older videos, is definitely not a sex offender. Perhaps it's confusion with Trump. He brags about his offensive behavior.

The Democrat controlled FBI raids journalists offices and homes to find out their source es for revelations in Joe Biden's daughter's diary about his perverted behavior with her Something for which the FBI has no jurisdiction. On the other hand, there was no raid on the far left New York Times to find out their source for Trump's IRS tax returns illegally leaked by a Democrat operative at the IRS something very much in the purview of the Slimy, corrupt Democrat hack AG Merrick Garland had the gall to deny Biden DOJ polit ical bias. Then he condemns endangering the safety of fascist Democrat Party prosecutors and judges who abuse their public offices to selectively persecute political opponents, but said nothing when Democrat Schumer direct ly threatened Supreme Court Justices by name and did nothing to enforce the law and stop Democrat mobs from immediately tar geting the private homes of those justices to intimidate them and their families, even after the Democrat activist assassination attempt on Kavanaugh and his family. Biden the global appeaser is at it again, lifting sanctions on Iran and giving back the 6 billion in support of terrorism. The blood in Israel is on Biden and the Democrats who support his evil policies. Would someone please explain how one can be a professed Christian and yet support the Biden Democratic agenda? Thanks to Obama and now Biden, we have a present day holocaust.

If you are a Democrat you are in a demonic party that supports the sexual mutilation of children including castration sterilization and pumping them with drugs that cause permanent damage to bones, heart and brain that supports elective abortion up to the moment of birth which is clear infanticide that supports tax dollars used in the public schools to attack traditional religious values with graphic LGBTQ sexual indoctrination of other people's children and teaching white children they should feel ashamed of their skin color and their classmates to view them as an oppressor. Clear child abuse and incite ment to bullying and violence. Any wonder that the suicide rate of white children is now more than two times that of black children?

Behavior of adults real threat to Kansas students

Testimony submitted last week to the Special Committee on Education crystalized three unfortunate realities: (1) student achievement is low and has been trending down for many years, with significant achievement gaps for low-income students; (2) achievement will remain persistently low until adult behaviors change in the education bureaucracy, and (3) most education officials have no intention of changing their behavior.

I'm not talking about teachers and others who work in the trenches. This reality concerns officials at the Department of Education (KSDE), the State Board of Education, the Kansas Association of School Boards (KASB), the teacher unions, many superintendents, and other administrators. They claim to want student achievement to improve but won't change their behaviors to make it happen.

The hearings examined Kansas's education climate and its impact on student achievement. Aside from Kansas Legislative Research, the Division of Post Audit, and the Office of the Revisor of Statutes, testimony generally fell into two buckets. The bureaucracy attempted to justify continuing the efforts that produced low achievement and witnesses who proposed changes to improve outcomes.

Bureaucrats tried to excuse away years of bad results. For example, KASB proclaimed Kansas is one of just six states that didn't experience declines in ACT scores in 2022. The reality is that the 2022 results were the same as those from 2021, which were the worst scores recorded in more than 30 years. Only 21% of Kansas graduates were college-ready in English, Reading, Math, and Science.

KASB tried to pitch that as 'good news.' KSDE said the state assessment doesn't identify students below grade level because it only measures grade-level competencies. Trying to say that students who perform poorly on grade-level-appropriate reading and math measures insults the intelligence of parents who trust their kids to public schools.

They acknowledge that about a third of students have limited ability to perform at grade level, which obviously means those kids are not performing at grade level. But KSDE doesn't like the 'below grade level' label because it sounds bad (which it is), so it scrubbed 'grade level' from the description for the sake of appearance. Originally, Level 1 was clearly 'below grade level' because Levels 2-4 were identified as 'at or above grade level.'

Even the Kansas Supreme Court wrote, "Level one is students who are not performing at grade level in the given subject."[i]

The Division of Post Audit recapped findings from its 2023 examination on the use of "at-risk" funding that are about the same as its 2019 audit - school districts still are not spending money on "above and beyond" services as required by state law. The State Board of Education took no action following the 2019 audit, and KSDE's testimony made it apparent that legal violations would continue.

School districts and the bureaucracy are also ignoring the building needs assessment law. It says, "school boards shall conduct" annual assessments of each school to identify barriers to students reaching proficiency and the budgetary changes required to overcome them. Evidence showing school districts have failed to comply with the law each of the last three years was given to the committee. This included the fact that superintendents will not allow board members to participate in meetings with teachers and principals. The records were obtained by Kansas Policy Institute, owner of The Sentinel, via Open Records requests.

Several organizations were asked to provide

Democrat laughter fuses Gaetz in McCarthy ouster

Kevin McCarthy has become the first House speaker to ever be successfully ousted in a motion to vacate vote. One day, you can tell your grandchildren you were alive to witness this completely pointless bit of history.

Rep. Matt Gaetz's (R-Fla.) self-aggrandizing political stunt makes no sense and changes nothing -- other than perhaps his fundraising totals. And other than some platitudinous blathering about "the establishment" and "the uniparty," I still haven't seen anyone offer a coherent reason -- not even retroactively -- for how any of this is the "best way to advance the conservative agenda."

It would be one thing, perhaps an admirable thing, if Gaetz had gone on this crusade for a coherent ideological or principled reason. But his post-ousting demagoguery and grandstanding about issues completely unrelated to McCarthy's job performance proved it was a personal matter.

"I don't think voting against Kevin McCarthy is chaos," Gaetz explained. "I think $33 trillion in debt is chaos. I think that facing a $2.2-trillion annual deficit is chaos." Now, there are numerous people to blame for the impending fiscal disaster, but McCarthy is no more guilty than most.

One of the least convincing claims by Gaetz's defenders is that McCarthy was punished for ignoring the base. "The base," of course, is a popular euphemism for the most vociferous populist faction of the GOP. This faction enjoys blowing things up -- mostly their own party's prospects. In this case, the "base" was represented by eight Republicans who were fighting for the honor of the base -- what The New York Times called the "farright GOP faction" -- were Reps. Nancy Mace (who said Gaetz was a "fraud" the last time he tried to knock off McCarthy) and Ken Buck (who we last heard was reportedly looking for a CNN gig). I'm going to go out on a limb and say that the future of conservatism was not the motivating factor for their votes.

Most Trump-endorsed candidates didn't even participate in McCarthy's removal. Donald Trump himself tepidly supported the speaker because, as he noted, the man had said "very great things" about him. And, really, what's more important? Though, I bet McCarthy was expecting a far more energetic defense after pathetically ingratiating himself to the former president a couple of weeks ago.

Even if Gaetz had excellent reasons, Republicans did not eject McCarthy. Eight Republicans can't do anything by themselves. No, 208 Democrats ousted McCarthy with the help of some petulant backbenchers nursing personal vendettas. It is a political coup for the Dems.

Gaetz, who only yesterday was going on about McCarthy's "secret deal" with Democrats, had no qualms sitting on the opposition side of the House plotting to oust a speaker who holds a rickety nine-seat majority. If there was actually a brewing House rebellion, Gaetz would have been able to corral far more votes.

But Gaetz wanted to "break the fever" of D.C., so he teamed up with minority leader Hakeem Jeffries, "the squad," Adam Schiff and so on. Jeffries claimed he was supporting Gaetz's efforts because Republicans have shown an "unwillingness to break from MAGA extremism in an authentic and comprehensive manner." The notion that Democrats are backing a leading MAGA loyalist because they want to temper the "extremism" of Republicans makes about as much sense as Jamaal Bowman's fire alarm story. Democrats keep pretending they yearn for a more responsible GOP and stable political environment, then keep supporting every fringe effort and candidate to undermine both. Of course, no one is owed anything.

McCarthy isn't the only person available in D.C. to serve as a middling speaker of the House. And, frankly, if he'd been more talented at the job, he might have headed off this challenge more effectively. But it's doubtful anyone is going to perform better with a slender majority and the Senate and presidency in Democrats' hands.

But then again, none of that matters when you're having a tantrum.

Day 1 - KAA Fall Field Event

Day One at the KAA Fall Field Event in the Crawford County State Park. Up at 6:00 AM and enjoyed a nice continental breakfast before driving down to the park. At 8:00 we all gathered at a large shelter house to check in and receive our instructions for the day.

Our leader for this event was, Shelby Beltz, MA, Kansas Public Archeologist. There were 14 of us who answered the roll call.

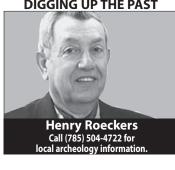

Shelby then divided us into two teams. One team was assigned to the 1930's CCC and the other team to the Civil War encampment. I was very excited when I was chosen to work at the old military camp site. We had no more than gotten our assignments, when it started raining. At 9:00 AM, Shelby announced we were going to cancel out for the morning and meet back at 1:00. We were all free to do or go wherever. Several of us just took naps in our vehicles.

The rain stopped right at noon and after a quick in the field sack lunch, we all gathered once again. Since I was assigned to the military encampment, I will only write about my assignment. We had three metal detector operators (I was one) and four diggers/ recorders plus Shelby, our

Our very first event was to take a hike on the Spider Leg Bridge Trail that completely encircled the area where we would be working. I was amazed at the number of pawpaws that were along this trail. It was too early for them to be ripe.

DIGGING UP THE PAST

Once again we were split up into two groups and began conducting metal detector surveys around two of the stone rock foundations that are still

In my area, we were soon uncovering square nails, several pieces of what once was a cast iron stove, harness buckles, log chain links and we also collected shards of glass bottles and dishware from the surface. I hate to brag, but I found the find of the afternoon, a perfect brass general staff eagle button. Even the wire shank was still in tact.

At 5:00 PM we gathered up everything and went back to our motels. After a shower, I walked over to McDonalds and grabbed a bite to eat before retiring for the day.

My next week's column will be about day two of this adventurous project.

cars and events of past. This event was a huge success, so much so that the participants and the city requested that the event become an annual event. This was the birth of the Lake Garnett Grand Prix Revival.

History of Lake Garnett, race track and the Revival

a national landmark in the late

50's to early 70's when the lake road became the 2.8 mile "true road" course for 9 sports car races held from 1959 to 1972.

This was the premier series at the time and included cars from all of the major automakers including Ferrari, Maserati,

Shelby, Chevrolet and Austin

Healey to name a few. Many famous race car drivers, such as Dan Gurney and Carroll

Shelby, raced here. Race fans now in their 60s and 70s all over the country still rememweekends after the Fourth of July to join an estimated 60,000 past still lives on.

The event is now organized and arranged by a committee made up of local car clubs and individuals. The City of Garnett has sanctioned and supports the event.

Cruising Lake Garnett is a favorite past-time or custom of both the local residents and visitors. When cruising Lake Garnett one must be mindful of its unique features which were fondly named by the Lake Garnett Racing Association: Flat Iron Corner, North Bend, Muleshoe Corner, Red Dog Straight Away, Snyder Corner, The Chute, Clubhouse Bend. to name a few. Charity Rides Revival During the Showcase on Saturday spectators will have the rare opportunity to take a ride in a classic car for a couple of parade laps around the historic track. There will be a number of different cars to choose from. Due to the popularity of this event it may be difficult to get to ride in your first choice, it might be your second. Keep in mind that it's all volunteer and all the proceeds will be donated to local charities. The Charity Rides will take place on Saturday. Staging will be downtown on the corner of 4th and Oak Street from 2 p.m. - 5 p.m.

Central Heights quarterback Brody Roullett fires a pass to wide receiver Reed Compton during Friday's game with Northern Heights, setting up a yardage game that yielded the Vikings' first score of the night in what would become a 42-0 homecoming win.

Vikings XC continues to make history

OSAGE CITY - It is really seeming like the same story every week with the Central Heights Vikings cross country team as they somehow seem to one-up themselves from the previous week. There is only one way to describe their performance from last week at Osage City. Record breaking. Emma Cubit's 19:15 smashed the high school girls 5K record previously set by Lily Meyer (19:42) in 2018. As incredible as the record is on its own, Emma also topped one of the best 3A runners in the State and was less than 10 seconds behind one of the top 4A runners in the Following suit, Melaney Chrisjohn also ran her best time ever by over 15 seconds while Arabella Dunbar, Landry Sparks and Sky Dyerson-Fritchman also set new personal records.

"I am so proud of how hard they pushed themselves and I couldn't ask for a better leader and role model for all of them than Emma," a very proud Vikings head coach Troy Prosser stated.

The boys also went out with one goal in mind and achieved it by setting marks that Central Heights has simply never seen before.

After Cody Hammond's record-breaking performance last week, he, Connor Burkdoll and Owen Miller all crushed that very mark cementing themselves as the top three fastest runners in Viking history. In fact, the top six boys all set new personal records to claim the team title with 30 points. The 17 minute barrier has traditionally been a very elusive barrier for us but yesterday Christian McCord (17:02) was close and Miller (16:08) destroyed his previous best of 16:50.

Burkdoll

Then.

Hammond went one further and dropped below 16 minutes as the first two to ever do so in the Vikings uniform. Burkdoll's 15:57 was a massive personal record by over a minute and Hammond's 15:50 now stands as the new school record as he broke it for the second time in two weeks. With Stetson Miller and Hunter Johnson's strong races, the Vikings top six runners are now all sub 18 minutes.

The middle school squads both ran as full teams for the first time this season and came out with both team titles. Lily Burkdoll ran a great race and was only one second off of her own personal record to lead her team to four medal finish-

Josiah Meyer blew past his own personal record by nearly 20 seconds and is now within earshot of the middle school boys school record (held by Connor Burkdoll). With five boys in the top 14 and five girls in the top 11, they have set themselves up to compete well at next week's Flint Hills League meet.

Prosser concluded, "Heading into the championship meets of the season with 32 personal records and two school records on the day is another big step in the right direction."

Bulldog XC run at Osage City

OSAGE CITY - The Anderson County boys finished 6th at the Osage City Invite last week.

The only top 20 finisher on the day was Addie Fudge for the girls. Addie finished in 20th place with a time of 22:07. Kassie Mains was the only other girl's runner on the day.

She finished in 35th with a time Bo Johnston (18:55) finished of 23:39.

Grant Nienstedt (18:12) was just two places back in 28th and Brodie Wiesner (18:29) was 31st. Landon Kraft (18:52) and the afternoon in 40th and 43rd respectively.

Also running for the var-sity boys were Zykin Velvick (19:41, 63rd place) and Easton Wettstein (20:31, 75th).

Burlington runs past the Bulldogs

BURLINGTON - Anderson County jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead scoring on the game's opening play last Friday but Burlington would reel off the games final 31 points to win going away.

After receiving the opening kickoff and taking possession at their own 42 yardline, Preston Kueser connected with Christopher Barnett for a 58-yard touchdown strike and following the extra point the Bulldogs led 7-0.

Burlington would score lone touchdowns in each of the first three quarters to take a 19-7 lead heading into the fourth before taking on two more late touchdowns to put a stamp on the 31-7 win.

After the opening play, the Bulldogs mustered just 151 yards on 52 plays (2.9 yards per play) over the game's final 47 recommendations to improve state assessment results, which show Kansas has more students below grade level than are proficient. Common sense dictates that doing the same things over and over again will not suddenly reverse the trend, but that is what the bureaucracy proposed – more of the same with more money on top.

Ideas to improve student achievement

organizations Several offered ideas that buck the status quo, and most of them focused on changing adult behaviors.

Build character. Troy Pitsch, Superintendent of USĎ Wabaunsee, discussed remarkable student achievement gains since the district embraced the Franklin Covey "Leader in Me" curriculum. The Kansas Department of Education requires social-emotional learning to be accredited, and Wabaunsee fulfills that mandate by teaching leadership and building character.

Embrace the science of reading. David Hurford, Director of the Center for READing at Pittsburg State University, says there is only one effective way to teach kids how to read, yet there are many teachers in Kansas and across the country who are not trained in the science of reading. School boards should ensure that all teachers have the training and use it in the

Require districts to publish state assessment results on the front page of their websites. The report should include historical trends for all students, low-income students, and students who are not low-income. Current year results for each grade tested (3-8 and 10) should also be pro-

Accreditation should be based primarily on academic improvement. Currently. districts are not required to show academic improvement to be accredited. Indeed, much of the accreditation model involves paperwork and documentation at the district level rather than each school.

Build on the Legislature's literacy efforts by making university funding contingent on teaching the science of reading. Wichita State University, Fort Hays State University, and the University of Kansas get good marks from the National Council on Teacher Quality. Pittsburg State receives an F, and Emporia State and Kansas State University (so far) refuse to provide reading course syllawhich has improved public school achievement in states with robust options. The 2023 edition of The 123s of School Choice examined the findings of 29 research studies of the impacts of choice on public school students test scores; 26 studies (90%) found positive effects, one (3%) found no effect, and two (7%) found a negative effect. Competition encourages public schools to work harder to retain students, which is reflected in NAEP scores for the states with long-established and robust choice options - Florida and Arizona. Reading and math proficiency gains for Arizona and Florida are much great-bi to conduct an analysis. Expand school choice, er than the national average. While those states improved, Kansas declined significantly despite spending a lot more per student.

Patrick Wolfe, Dr. Professor Distinguished of Educational Policy at the University of Arkansas, presented additional research showing that school choice has an overwhelmingly positive impact on student achievement in public and private settings. He also cited studies showing the societal benefits of choice, including political tolerance, political participation, civic knowledge and skills, and volunteerism.

Accreditation should be tied to full compliance with the building needs assessment. Districts should be required to notify parents in writing if the accreditation status changes for not following state law.

Students in districts that do not follow state laws on at-risk spending or building needs assessments should be eligible for education savings accounts. Both laws are designed to improve outcomes, so students should be allowed to go elsewhere if district officials ignore those laws.

Modify achievement targets in the building needs assessment law. Proficiency should align with the Department of Education's 75% target, and another target should focus on moving students out of Level 1 (Below Grade Level).

Require written documentation of the budgetary changes made (dollar amounts allocated to overcome barriers and the source of the money) on each building needs assessment.

Require school boards to document the amount of time spent at each board meeting reviewing efforts to improve student achievement in board meeting minutes. Most school boards spend less than 5% of the time at board meetings reviewing efforts to improve outcomes. The education bureaucracy is forcing legislators to choose to intervene with these student-focused efforts to compel change in adult behaviors or accept having a third of students below grade level as the

Lancers tie season win record

UNIONTOWN - Not only did the Crest Lancers sweep all 4 games Saturday, winning the Uniontown tournament, they also tied the all-time win record for a season in the process.

The four wins pushed the Lancers record to 26-6, with still 2 games remaining in the regular season to set a new mile-

Crest won over NE-Arma in 3 sets (21-25, 25-20, 25-21), KC Christian (25-6, 25-23) and Central Heights (25-9, 25-9) before downing Galena for first place in a 3-set thriller 23-25, 25-17 and 25-19.

"We had some struggles throughout the day, but the girls stayed together and went undefeated," Lancer Coach Abigail Hermreck stated.

The composure of the team is what has made this record a possibility.

"They did not get rattled, but dug deep and found a way to get momentum back in those moments of struggle," Coach Hermreck added. "We still have work to do, but I am so proud of the determination they displayed and the dedication they have to the team.'

Kayla Hermreck led the team with 64 kills. She had 26 assists, 31 digs, and served 21/28 with 5 ace serves.

Brooklynn Jones had 5 kills, 7 assists, 21 digs, and served 48/56 at 86% leading the team with 14 aces.

Karlee Boots had 19 kills, 22 digs, and served 24/25 at 96% with 3 ace serves.

Cursten Allen had 1 kill, 3 digs, and added a much needed spark passing at critical times.

Kinley Edgerton led the team with 54 assists and 38 digs. She had 11 kills and served 53/55 at 96% with 5 ace serves and Aylee Beckmon had 5 kills, 4 assists, 28 digs, and served 25/29 and 86% with 4 ace serves.

Kaelin NIlges had 6 kills, 7 assists and 16 digs. She served 43/45 at 96% wit 7 ace serves.

The Lancers will be looking to set the record tonight against Yates Center in matches with the host team and SE Cherokee.

Crest Lancers volleyball win two at Marmaton Valley

MORAN – With a pair of wins last Tuesday, the Crest Lancers moved their record to 22-6 overall and 8-1 in Three Rivers League play.

In the first game, the Lancers knocked off St. Paul in two sets, 25-16 and 25-13.

They also downed Marmaton Valley in straight sets, 25-15 and 25-17.

Strong serving from Kayla Hermreck (16/16 at 100% with 3 ace serves), Kaelin Nilges( 28/29 at 97% with 3 ace serves), Brooklynn Jones (27/28 at 96% with 7 ace serves) and Kinley Edgerton (13/16 at 81 %) was a major factor in the team's success. The Lancers served 91% as a team.

"Kinley Edgerton did a fantastic job setting and getting the ball to our hitters," Lancer head coach Abigail Hermreck stated. "The passes weren't always there, but she was making plays."

Edgerton led the team with 29 assists and had 5 kills.

Karlee Boots led the team with 15 digs and had some hard swings and placed the ball well. She had 12 kills that were huge to keep the Lancers rolling.

Kayla Hermreck led the team with 27 kills and 3 blocks.

"She made some great decisions at the net and made big plays," Hermreck added.

Aylee Beckmon led the team in serve receive passing and had some hustle plays. Coach Hermreck praised her ability on getting the ball to the set-

"Our Libero, Cursten Allen, continues to make hustle plays and terrific passes for the team," Hermreck stated. "She comes off of the bench giving 100% and is always talking." Coach also was happy with Kaelin Nilges as she had several hustle plays and was quick at anticipating on defense and at the net and feels Brooklynn Jones was doing a great job at getting the free balls to the setter and covering the setter's corner.

"Tonight was a challenge for us mentally too. Moran was playing well and attacking at the net," Coach said. "We got down by 3 points and rallied together to come back. I was proud of the girls for pulling together, being aggressive, and going for the win."
